The house-tax also, we learn, shows a large increase, though the amount is not stated, and this is another favourable sign. Seeing the flourishing condition of the finances, we think that His Exthe burden of taxation, and reducing the taxes to ten per cent., as was done in 1879.

With regard to Public Works, there is little reference to any of these in the GOVERNOR'S speech. The reconstruction of the Praya Wall has at last been successfully earried out at a cost of $150,000, and we are told that a new Lock Hospital has been provided, the Government Civil Hospital having been lodged in the building formerly used as the Lock Hospital. i'he other morning two well-dressed Chinese called to ask my opinion on some ores which they brought with them. These ores, they said, were obtained from kills distant about 1,000 li from Nanking. They pronounced it silver ore and produced a small lump of silver about the sise of s pea, which they said was extracted from some of it. They had obtained by their rough process about 10 oz. to the 100 lbs. of ore, and were now anxious to get a reliable opinion as to the value of the discovery. There were three hills of this ore and coal in abundance at a short distance, and they purposed should it prove really valuable to purchase foreign machinery to work the mine. COREA.

We read in a native paper that a new school called the Shiusei Gakko, was opened in Fusan, Corea, on the 5th of this month. The opening ceremony was attended by more than a hundred people, some of whom are in the Government service. Since the school for the study of the Corean language was abolished last spring, and its students brought under the care of the Educational Department, Japanese residents have had no means of studying the language. The number of Japanese settlers having now reached two thousand, the establishment of a school has been found necessary, and a subscription was raised for that purpose. Mr. Yamada Sojiro, a member of the Koakwai (Asiatic Society) has proceeded to Fusan for the purpose of establishing the institution.

The Mainichi Shimbun contains the following recent correspondence from the port of Gensan, the anti-foreign party. On the 9th of July instant, a sailing vessel belonging to Okura and Co. arrived here. This is the first time a sailing ship has visited the port of Gonsan. Her Britannic Majesty's sloop-of-war Pegasus steamed into harbour on the 7th. The captain landed. had an interview with Consul-General Maida objected to the English man-of-war anchoring. and asked the Consul-General to induce the captain to leave as quickly as possible. The Corean Government has made a contract for the construction of a wharf with Mosses. Okura and Co., the cost of which will be 2.357 kwan 624 mon. It has been currently ramoured that large numbers of the anti-foreign party have flooked to Gensan. This has caused the Consul General on their proceedings. I hear on good authority that the rumour was set affeat by the Corean officials, with the idea of terrifying the Japanese residents. A mail service, overland, has been commenced between Fusan and Gensan. The trip is made once a month, and it takes a lon time, say thirty day, in going and returning. The fare is four kwan mon in Corean money equal to 10.80 yen. The Coreans very gladly engage in the service, from which it would seem that the price of commodities is very cheap in Theuce she proceeded on foot into the valley towards the dongs where the body found, following precisely the same track as the officers who went in search of the corpse. road was stony and rough, but in spite of all remonstrances from her attendants, the Empres persisted in her intention. In the distance cleamed the white monument, thrown into sharp relief by the dark background, but it only seemed o catch the eye of the Empress when she got to the bank of the donga. Then she lifted her hands as in supplication towards heaven, the tears poured over her cheeks, worn with sorrow and vigils; she spoke no word and uttered no ory, but sank slowly on her knees. A French priest reneated the prayers for the dead, and the servant Lomas, who had been an eye-witness went through the sad story of what had happoned last year. The tents were pitched in the valley, and the Empress stayed there two days. On the following day she went to Fort Nanoleon, and thence to Rorke's Drift, and on the fifth day visited the field of Isandula, and prayed there with the Englishwemen who had come there to mourn their husbands and brothers.
